Topics will include strategies to help support full participation of students in general education classrooms and exploring ways that individuals with ASD can improve the quality and independence of their everyday lives. Keynote presentations will be given by Ros Blackburn, a lecturer from Essex, England, who experiences autism, Jamie Burke, a Syracuse University student with autism and advocate for facilitated communication, Carol Ann Edscorn, a mother with Asperger syndrome, and international speaker, author, and autism consultant, Donna Williams. For more information or to register online, visit www.iod.unh.edu or call 603-228-2084 with questions.

The University of San Diego, School of Leadership and Education Sciences, presents their Summer Autism Conference, “People, Not Packages: Dynamic Approaches to Personalizing Supports for People with Autism,” for self-advocates, educators, families, students, other professionals, and support staff on July 9-11, 2007 at the University of San Diego. This conference brings state-of-the-art ideas on how to better understand and support individuals who live with autism. Presenters include Stephen Hinkle, Sue Rubin, Anne Donnellan, Ph.D., Martha Leary, CCC-SLP, Nan Negri, Ph.D., Kate (continued on next page)
McGinnity, M.S., Christi Kasa-Hendrickson, Ph.D., Jodi Robledo, Ph.D., and Diana Pastora Carson, M.Ed. For online registration: Go to www.usd-online.org and click on Summer Autism Conference, located under Upcoming Events. Contact Marilyn Green at 619-260-5902 for more information.

Syracuse University's Facilitated Communication Institute presents Summer Institute 2007, "Communication through the Arts," July 16-19, 2007. This 2nd annual Institute is designed to include those with experience using facilitated communication, as well as those new to it. It will build on last year's theme of independence by combining the basics, such as skill building, with strategies for effective artistic expression. By exploring how the arts can enhance the ability to communicate, FC users and their support teams can expand their repertoire of independent communication strategies. Presenters include Ralph Savarese, Sue Rubin and Jamie Burke, who experience autism, Suzi Tortora, Ph.D., who will discuss movement issues, and Paula Kluth, Ph.D. on literacy and inclusion. Nine Ways to Interact with People with Autism
by Sarah Stup

1. Autism helps protect us from seeing and hearing too much. Please don’t hate our shield.

2. Try not to stare. Sometimes we need to do unusual things.

3. We hear you when you complain about us. Find other times to talk mean.

4. Rudeness is not our intent. No sad faces please.

5. Real friends don’t judge our actions. Please find us inside bodies that work differently.

6. See us as real. We are not shells with no inhabitants.

7. With too much asking us to be normal, we feel like impostors.

8. Try to help us, not control us.

9. Raise hope to give us better futures. We need to aim high.

Sarah, a 23-year-old writer with autism, has a mission. Her dream is to help others better understand and accept people with autism. That message is at the heart of her two recently released books, Do-si-Do with Autism, for children, and Are Your Eyes Listening?, for adults. For excerpts and order information, or to learn more about Sarah and autism, visit www.SarahStup.com.
I THINK I NEED TO TELL YOU HOW HAVING A JOB IN THE COMMUNITY CONTRIBUTES TO MY LIFE. I AM THIRTY FIVE YEARS OLD. I LIVE IN MY OWN APARTMENT. I NEED TO LIVE BY MYSELF TO HAVE THINGS JUST THE WAY I NEED THEM TO BE. I BEGAN A JOB IN TEXAS AT THE LBJ LAW SCHOOL LIBRARY WHEN I WAS IN HIGH SCHOOL. I TOOK THE BUS BY MYSELF, AND I THOUGHT THAT GOING TO THE COLLEGE BY MYSELF WAS THE GREATEST. I LIKED DOING WORK THAT I LOVED, AND I LIKED THE IDEA THAT I HAD TASKS THE SAME AS OTHERS WORKING THERE. I LIKED BEING GREETED BY MY COWORKERS AS I ARRIVED. I LIKED THEM THANKING ME FOR MY WORK. I LIKED GETTING PAID. OVER THE YEARS SINCE THEN I HAVE WORKED AT SEVERAL JOBS. I HAD TIMES WHEN I DID NOT HAVE A JOB. IN THOSE TIMES I HAD DIFFICULTY FEELING GOOD ABOUT MYSELF. I LIKED THE ROUTINE AND THE PLANNING FOR THE WEEK. I LIKED IT WHEN I HAD SOMETHING TO GIVE TO OTHERS. I LEARNED HOW TO FOLLOW WORK RULES, AND I MADE A LOT OF FRIENDS. I LIKE THE WAY I FEEL. I LIKE HAVING A JOB THAT'S FUN. IT TOOK SEVERAL YEARS OF TRYING THINGS TO FIGURE OUT THE KIND OF JOB I NEEDED TO BE SUCCESSFUL. I LIKE MY CURRENT JOB AT THE COMPUTER PLACE VERY MUCH. I LIKE MY LIFE AND I LIKE MYSELF. I THINK I DO SOME THINGS BETTER THAN OTHER PEOPLE BECAUSE I HAVE AUTISM. THANKS TO ALEX AND DON FOR GREAT THINGS IN MY LIFE.

The Thumb Reacts
Gail Gillingham Wylie

Thumbs up to the 80 nations and the European Community who signed the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, committing their countries to the human and civil rights of people with disabilities.

Thumbs down to the United States of America, who not only refused to sign the convention but did not even have the courage to seat a representative from our Mission to the UN at our country table or to make any sort of official comment or explanation as to their refusal to take part.

Thanks to John A. Lancaster, Executive Director of the National Council on Independent Living (NCIL), for alerting us to this situation.

Thumbs up to the judge in Illinois who ruled that a cattle prod which delivers electric shocks cannot be used on a 48-year-old severely autistic man even if his parents say yes. His decision was based on the law passed in the Illinois legislature last year that made it illegal for shock treatment to be used in group home settings or community facilities. (Thumbs up also to that Illinois legislature.)

Thumbs down to the legislators in Massachusetts who are now working on a new piece of legislation to allow aversives with higher levels of pain to be used on people with autism. It is disheartening to listen to the rhetoric as people try to rationalize this inhumane treatment. Shame on you! Thanks to Barbara Cutler for keep us updated on this situation.

The thumb is waiting as we watch the progress of the bill introduced in the federal senate as the Community Choice Act of 2007, the intent of which is to relocate funding for people with severe disabilities, providing additional support for living in the community and alternatives to institutionalization. It looks good, but we are a little worried about the focus on behavioral interventions.

PRINCIPLES OF THE AUTISM NATIONAL COMMITTEE

As a member of the Autism National Committee I endorse for all people with autism, pervasive developmental disorders, and related disabilities the development of appropriate community services, including education, residences, jobs/job training programs, and of individually appropriate and adequate support services in all locations for both individuals and their family members; of state-of-the-art communication options for all individuals with unique communicative and social needs; of adequate supports to every family to assist them in maintaining their disabled family member in their home at least throughout the childhood and adolescent years; and the dissemination of available knowledge of those aspects of the disability requiring special support and understanding; the promotion of research to provide parents and professionals with greater insight into the unique needs of individuals with autism and related disabilities; and the use, development, and promotion of positive, respectful approaches for teaching every aspect of life.

Moreover, I oppose the use of institutions to separate people from their communities, and deprive them of dignity, freedom and the level of independence they can achieve in supportive community living; the use of procedures involving pain, humiliation, deprivation, and dangerous drugs as a means to alter and control individual’s behavior; the increasing use of bizarre technology to control self-injurious and aggressive behavior; the widespread ignorance of the basic social and communicative needs of people with autism; and the widespread disregard for the individual’s unique, basic and human needs. I object to programs which disregard the skills, preferences and basic human needs of the people they serve, and I believe that there is no longer need or any justification for using painful and abusive procedures.
